TROOPS LEAVE MEXICAN PORT

Final Evacuation of Vera Cruz by American Forces Under General Funston Begins.

U. S. RETAINS MONEY

Department Arranges to Take Away 300 Mexican Civilians Who Fear to Stay.

Washington, Nov. 23.—American troops, which have held Vera Cruz since last April, were evacuating the city and sailing for home today and officials here expect sunset will see the Mexican flag again floating over the ancient fortress of San Juan and the American troops well on their way homeward across the gulf.

Dispatches early today from Major General Funston said his furthest outposts had been withdrawn at 9 o'clock, at 10 o'clock troops guarding the railroads at the approaches of the city were withdrawn and at 11 the embarkation was on in earnest. General Funston reported he expected to sail for Galveston at noon. He reported constitutionalist troops under General Aguilar were taken possession of the city.

Occupation of the Mexican port, in reprisal for Huerta's insult to the flag at Tampico, has cost the United States more than a score of lives, some in battle and some from disease, and according to some estimates as much as ten million dollars. But Mexico will be asked to pay no indemnity. Administration officials want that fact to stand out as an added evidence of the disinterested friendship of the United States for her southern neighbor.

Recognition to be Avoided.

General Funston has instructions to turn the city over to none of the Mexican factions and thereby avoid what might be construed as a recognition of one of them. His orders simply are to bring his troops away and leave to city to whichever faction takes possession.

Carranza's commander, Aguilar, is nearest, but Carranza troops which have swerved in their allegiance to Villa are not far distant. There have been some evidences that Carranza intended to move his capital to Vera Cruz upon the American evacuation.

The Fourth, Seventh, Nineteenth and Twenty-eighth infantry and the First battalion of the Fourth field artillery and two squadrons of the Sixth cavalry will return to Galveston. The three regiments of marines will go to Philadelphia.

Vera Cruz, Nov. 23.—The American forces of occupation under General Frederick Funston, after a stay in Vera Cruz of seven months, today began embarking on the steamships which will return them to the United States. The outposts began falling back at 9 o'clock in the morning and two hours later the first American soldiers were going over the sides of the waiting transports.

General Funston established his headquarters on board the transport Cristobal and all the organizations of his command began at daylight the work of moving out their equipment preparatory to final evacuation. Everything progressed smoothly. Beyond the American outposts there had been mobilized during the night a force of Constitutionalists. As the Americans withdrew, first from the outlying districts and then from the city itself, the Constitutionalists followed them along and nominally occupied the territory evacuated.

Inhabitants Are Nervous.

The city is quiet, but the inhabitants are nervous and apprehensive concerning the final outcome of this transfer of authority. All saloons in Vera Cruz remained closed today on orders of General Funston, and many commercial establishments decided not to open their doors.

The government of Vera Cruz is not being turned over to any faction of Mexicans. The territory is being evacuated, and as fast as the Americans go out Constitutionalists are coming in.

U. S. Retains Money.

The American army officials are taking with them the moneys collected for customs and from other sources of revenue. These ultimately will go to some Mexican government which the United States may deem a proper one to receive them.

The American quartermaster department has arranged to take away from Vera Cruz something like 300 Mexicans who did not care to be in the city when their countrymen again came into possession.

American forces were ordered to seize Vera Cruz in April of this year, on account of a series of acts on the part of the Mexican authorities to which Washington had protested in vain. Among these was an incident at Tampico, when a boat load of American bluejackets were arrested. American marines and bluejackets landed at Vera Cruz April 21, and the city was occupied with a loss of seventeen American lives.

In due time the American bluejackets and marines were removed and forces of the army under General Funston took possession. At the time Vera Cruz was occupied, Victoriano Huerta was provisional president of the republic. Today Huerta is in Europe, and the constitutionalists who opposed him are in control of Mexico City.

The American force embarked at Vera Cruz today numbers about 6000 men.

Havana, Nov. 23.—The safety of Cuban citizens in Mexico is becoming a subject of much concern to the Cuban government. It is feared that with the departure of the American forces from Vera Cruz the positions of the Cubans will not be safe. It is understood that the Cuban government is considering the immediate dispatch of a cruiser to Vera Cruz to bring away such Cubans as desire to leave. There is talk of sending the cruiser Cuba or the cruiser Palria or even both of these ships to Mexico.

Captain Asked to Explain.

Washington, Nov. 23.—Major General George B. Barnes, commander of the marine corps, under instructions from Secretary Daniels, today called upon Captain Walker N. Hill in Boston, to ascertain whether published reports were accurate which quoted Captain Hill as saying Mexicans probably would be burning and looting Vera Cruz before nightfall, if the American forces left there today. Captain Hill also was requested to explain fully just what he did say, if anything, concerning the situation at Vera Cruz, where he commanded a company of marines during the American occupancy.

ROBERTS TELLS WHY PEOPLE OF UTAH ARE THANKFUL

The fact that Ogden people are willing to give thanks when the opportunity is given them to hear a forceful exposition of any phase of the "higher thought," was again evidenced yesterday afternoon when nearly 1100 persons crowded into the Tabernacle to participate in the special Thanksgiving service for which Elder B. H. Roberts had been announced as the speaker. The service was conducted by Elder Frank Williams.

In addition to the address of the afternoon, an especially appropriate and pleasing musical program was given by the Tabernacle choir and soloists, under the direction of Prof. Joseph Ballantyne. Organist Sam F. Whitaker played a beautiful organ prelude and the song numbers were as follows:

"Count Your Many Blessings," Choir.
"An Angel from On High," Choir.
"Praise to God, Immortal Praise," Lillian Robertson, Douglass Brian and Choir.

Elder B. H. Roberts' address was a brilliant and deeply impressive one, his ability as a public speaker combined with the depth of thought expressed in his talk of nearly two hours duration, holding the close attention of the large congregation. The speaker took as his theme the text of the 100th psalm, wherein the ancient prophet David tells the people to return thanks to God for the many blessings they had received.

After reading the text, he analyzed it and said that the same reason exists today for giving thanks to God as existed then for "God is the same now as he was in the time of David."

"God," he continued, "is the most permanent thing that the mind can conceive of. We, in this modern day, can come to this God for He is good and blesses all generations."

Continuing, Elder Roberts reviewed the history of the American Thanksgiving day. The first one, he said, was celebrated on the 13th of December, 1621, in Massachusetts. This was a purely New England celebration, but in 1789, President Washington proclaimed November 26 a national Thanksgiving holiday, and largely through the efforts of Mrs. Sarah J. Hale, a magazine editor of the time, congress made the holiday permanent.

It comes, he said, at a time when the harvest has been garnered and the people should be thankful for the sin of ingratitude is the greatest of all sins.

Speaking directly to the members of his own faith, the speaker said they had much to be thankful for; good parents, from whom they had inherited healthy bodies and minds of average strength; good food; the opportunities for good education; a splendid atmosphere, and beautiful environments.

"In Utah," he continued, "a man has the best fighting ground in the world for success, if he is ambitious; for the soil is fruitful and the climate incomparable. No more glorious land in which men dwell exists than this same state of Utah."

"The new dispensation of the gospel gives us a complete revelation of God to us, through his son Jesus."

Continuing, he said that God was closer to the people than the association of a brother and stated that, for this fellowship they should also be grateful.

"We should be grateful," he stated further, "for the nation in which we live for its free institutions, for the high standard of civilization which it maintains and for the peace it enjoys while one-half the world is at war. God established it through the hands of wise men whom He called for that special purpose. It is a government by the people and of the people and every citizen is a sovereign and not a subject. God had protected it through days of stress and trouble and it is now easily the greatest nation in the world in every respect. We should thank Him for its creation, even as for the creation of the world and the human race."

Speaking further, he said that the United States had a reputation for justice that had brought it the honor and respect of all nations, and this in contrast to the evidence of man's inhumanity to man in the foreign nations was also a cause for gratefulness. A most impressive exposition of this contrast was given by Elder Roberts in a review of the present war in Europe and in summing it up he said:

"And on this Thanksgiving day remember this: The condition, thank God with all your hearts for the peace that exists in your country and pray Him to preserve it."

In conclusion, he said that the one hope of the warring nations of Europe today was that when they were worn out by the awful struggle, the United States would act as the mediator in bringing about peace in a manner through which all would receive justice.

The benediction was pronounced by Patriarch H. C. Jacobs.

GENERAL BLANCO HEADS OFF PLAN

Refuses to Leave Mexico City to Be Sacked by the Zapata Forces.

DISOBEYS SUPERIOR

Polices City and Prepares for Orderly Entry of General Villa's Troops

Washington, Nov. 23.—Plans for an eleventh hour abandonment of Mexico City to the Zapata forces were frustrated by General Lucio Blanco, according to confidential reports received today at the state department from its agents.

General Carranza ordered the capital evacuated last Friday so that the Zapata forces could enter, at the same time tearing up the railroads north of Mexico City to check and delay the Villa troops. One of the official reports speaks of premeditated atrocities and an intention to leave the capital to be sacked. Just what was the purpose of the movement on the part of Carranza it was not disclosed.

Blanco Refuses to Obey Superior.

General Obregon according to the official reports, ordered General Blanco to accompany him from the city but the latter declined to obey his superior officer, saying he would not be a party to the plan. Obregon left after a serious argument with Blanco who then took full command and began to police the city and appoint municipal officers who arranged for protection against disorders.

Fears for the safety of residents in Mexico City now have passed, according to telegrams dated late last night and confidence is manifested in Blanco's ability to deal with the situation and arrange for an orderly entry of Villa's troops.

Villa Issues Strict Orders.

Washington, Nov. 23.—General Villa today informed George C. Carothers, United States consular agent, that he has issued general orders that any of his soldiers molesting women or pillaging on entering Mexico City will be summarily shot.

Acting Secretary Lansing said that order was reported prevailing in all the cities and towns thus far occupied by Villa's army. Mr. Carothers wired that arrangements were being made for the peaceful entry of the Villa columns into Mexico City.

Parle in Capital Subsidies.

From the Mexican capital came advice to the state department that the panic of the residents had partially subsided with the assumption of full command by General Lucio Blanco, who, after a heated argument with General Obregon, declined to accompany the latter in abandoning the city. Blanco has given assurances to the Brazilian minister and American consul Silliman that he will maintain order and has appointed a chief of police and several municipal officers to replace those who left to join Carranza at Orizaba.

Ambassadors Refuse Carranza Invitation.

General Carranza invited the entire diplomatic corps to accompany him to his temporary capital at Orizaba, but the invitation was declined. The diplomats have been making vigorous representations to General Blanco in whom they placed strong hope for the termination of the abuses which Carranza's troops are said to have been practicing in the last week. People driving in carriages in the principal thoroughfares had their horses taken from the vehicles. Automobiles were confiscated and property was seized and there had been some looting. Latest dispatches, however, say conditions are much improved. Indications are that General Blanco is friendly to General Villa.

Fearing that communication eastward to Vera Cruz may be interrupted the Brazilian embassy and American Consul Silliman are arranging to get in touch with Mr. Carothers who now is a hundred miles north of Queretaro, so that dispatches may be forwarded by the state department through Villa's line of communication to El Paso.

LOBSTER INDUSTRY
HARD HIT BY WAR

St. Johns, N. F., Nov. 23.—The canned lobster industry of New Foundland and Canada has been hard hit by the European war. As Germany is the largest consumer of this product, the principal market has been cut off. A case of 48 tins which brought $24 in New Foundland before the war, now cannot be sold for more than $8 or $10. As one merchant put it:

"Canned lobsters are as great a drug on the market in Canada and New Foundland as bales of cotton in the United States."

Ordinarily the returns from the industry amount to about $3,000,000 a year in Canada and half a million dollars in this colony.

Many of those interested favor the enforcing of a close season on lobsters during the whole of next year, thus taking advantage of the opportunity to replenish the fisheries which have been greatly depleted by extravagant methods of lobster taking.
